WORK OR PLAY

Jonathon Worner, above, harnesses his company's metal fabrication capacity to produce finely honed homewares with an industrial edge.

Right: stainless steel pinch dishes, $25 each; napkin ring, $23. Enquiries to Alloy, (08) 9279 8855; or see more at www.alloy-homewares.com.au

'The Warhol Look' opens May 1 to July 25 at the Art Gallery of WA, fresh from sellout seasons in New York, London, Marseilles and Sydney. More than 500 pieces from private collections and Pittsburg's Andy Warhol Museum offer a fascinating glimpse into the life, art and impact of this prodigious pop icon. Adult admission, $12; concessions, $8. Tel, (08) 9492 6600.

ROAD TO RESTORATION

The revamped Fauldings building at the western end of Murray St, city, now houses Perth's first complete Country Road man, woman and home collections. Architects Metier 3 painstakingly restored the grand old premises, bringing pressed metal ceilings, original jarrah floors and the ornate Victorian facade brilliantly back to life. The atrium cafe – also enter from Hay St – is run by Stewart Moss (ex-E Cucina) and open store hours. 307/311 Murray St, (08) 9321 3700.
